64TH YEAR-275

FRENCH PREMIER ASKS SUPPORT

Bradley New Chief Of Staff

Chicago Railroader New Boss Of VA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—President Truman completed reorganization of the nation's armed forces today naming Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans' administrator, to succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Army chief of staff.

Carl R. Gray, vice president of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad and a wartime major general, was chosen as Bradley's successor in the Veterans administration.

The chief executive's action in appointing Bradley to the top Army post climaxed a sweeping series of moves which began with designation of James V. Forrestal as the nation's first secretary of the national defense.

Simultaneously with disclosure of the Bradley appointment, Mr. Truman announced that Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Gates will be the new commandant of the Marine Corps.

GATES, veteran of the Pacific campaigns, will succeed Gen. Alexander Vandegrift, who is retiring.

Last week, the President named Admiral Louis E. Denfeld as successor to Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, who is retiring as chief of naval operations Dec. 1.

Bradley will take over as chief of staff when Eisenhower leaves the Army to become president of Columbia university. Eisenhower has indicated he will do this early next year.

However, the President said that Bradley will leave his Veterans Administration post and return to Army duty Dec. 1.

Gray's came as a surprise. His name had not been included in the list of potential VA chiefs mentioned by Washington observers after it became apparent.

Bomber Falls Into Pacific

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 21—A twin-engined medium Navy bomber plunged into the ocean 100 miles slightly south of Pt. Loma early today carrying with it nine men.

Two survivors were rescued by a submarine.

The navy announced that the plane was on a 14-hour routine coastal operation with four other planes of the same type. Cause of the crash was unknown.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

It's too late for Harry to regulate the weight of the turkey for this Thanksgiving but there still is time to count the cranberries.

The weight reducing announcement has just reached my chickens and I heard one hen say to another: "Did you hear him, Biddy? He wants us to eat less... just like Taft."

Down at the billiard hall the boys are saying: "Why did he stop at 10 points. He could have run it to 15 and made pool."

Anyway the President indicated that he will use wage controls very carefully. In fact there will be considerable surprise if he uses them at all.

But I understand that Mr. Murray and Mr. Green felt that it was a pretty good program up to a certain point. Point 10 to be exact.

The news from Russia is that Stalin's doctor told him to take it easy. We've told him to "take it easy" and gotten only reproachful looks.

Court Ruling May Upset Rent Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods announced today that an immediate appeal will be made, probably direct to the supreme court, from a federal court ruling that the housing and rent act of 1947 is unconstitutional.

Housing officials said that the federal court decision would upset the entire rent control and housing program if it is sustained.

The appeal will be made by the Justice department, Woods said, and that department will decide whether to go direct to the high court or go through the channels of the federal appeals court.

The ruling was made by Federal Judge Paul Jones, senior jurist of the Northern Ohio district and brought jubilation from landlords and rental property managers.

President Sidesteps Big Question

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—White House correspondents left President Truman's office this morning wondering whether he had finally admitted that he will be the Democratic candidate for re-election next year.

The chief executive, who held his weekly news conference, brought the reporters up on their toes by saying that he will attend the annual Army-Navy football game in Philadelphia again in 1948—after the next presidential elections.

Smiling and urbane, the President said he wanted to explain to sports followers why he will sit on the Army side of the field throughout the game in Philadelphia next week.

During the past two years the President has changed sides of the field at the half.

MR. TRUMAN said this year he is going to be the Army's guest. He said next year he will be the Navy's guest and sit on the Navy's side of the field throughout the game.

He added: "I am a spectator, too. I don't want to be part of the show myself."

"Won't that game be after the election next year?" he was asked.

The President said yes, it would.

"Does that mean you expect to be re-elected then?"

The President paused a moment. Then he shot back:

"Don't forget that the President's term does not expire until Jan. 20."

The President joined the general laughter at his adroit sidestepping of the big question which now is beginning to pop up in virtually all of his news conferences.

Correspondents nevertheless, wondered if the President had made an inadvertent admission of the general acceptance that he will be nominated for re-election at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia next July.

Son-Beater Given Term

CANTON, O., Nov. 21—A Canton father began a one-year jail sentence today for beating his two sons.

Juvenile Judge Paul D. Van Nostrand levied a $500 fine and the jail sentence on George M. Fortney, 31, who pleaded guilty to mistreating his sons, aged 9 and 11.

Chair Ordered

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Nov. 21—Roger "Tug" Williams, 33-year-old handyman, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair for the murder of Minta Webb Rothwell, 25, of Kenton.

Marshall Optimistic On Recovery

Diplomat Ready For Big 4 Meet

LONDON, Nov. 21—Secretary of State George Marshall expressed optimism in Europe's economic recovery program today on his arrival at London's Northolt airport to attend the Big Four conference of foreign ministers on Nov. 25.

The author of the recovery plan said after stepping out of President Truman's "Sacred Cow" that the recovery program "seems to be coming along quite favorably."

He was greeted by Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas and Lord Pakenham of the British foreign office.

Princess Juliana, regent of the Netherlands, delayed her scheduled departure from London after the royal wedding in order to be on hand for Marshall's arrival.

Peace treaties for Germany and Austria—blocked by differences between the Soviet Union and the Western powers—are to be dealt with at the parley which is considered the most critical since the end of the war.

SOVIET FOREIGN Minister Molotov is expected to arrive over the weekend and Foreign Minister Bidault of France will come from Paris on Monday, if reappointed to his post in that nation's cabinet crisis.

Marshall has no official plans for this afternoon but is scheduled to motor to All Souls college of Oxford tomorrow to receive an honorary degree. He will have tea with the Association of American Students there.

U. S. Ambassador to Moscow Walter Bedell Smith will come to London later in the week.

Deputies of the foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, France and Britain have been meeting in London in a vain attempt so far to agree on an agenda for the conference.

The order in which the German and Austrian treaties are to be taken up is a main point of contention. Russia wants the Austrian pact considered last in order to delay the withdrawal of Soviet troops from lands bordering Austria.

4 Arabs Die In New Riots

JERUSALEM, Nov. 21—Four Arabs were killed and at least five persons injured in Arab-Jewish shootings in the Holy Land during the past 24 hours while British evacuation operations progressed under a strict security blackout.

Five Jews were wounded last night in an attack on a bus near Jaffa. The action was believed to be a retaliation for an early morning action—allegedly by Stern Gang members—in which four Arabs died and a fifth was injured.

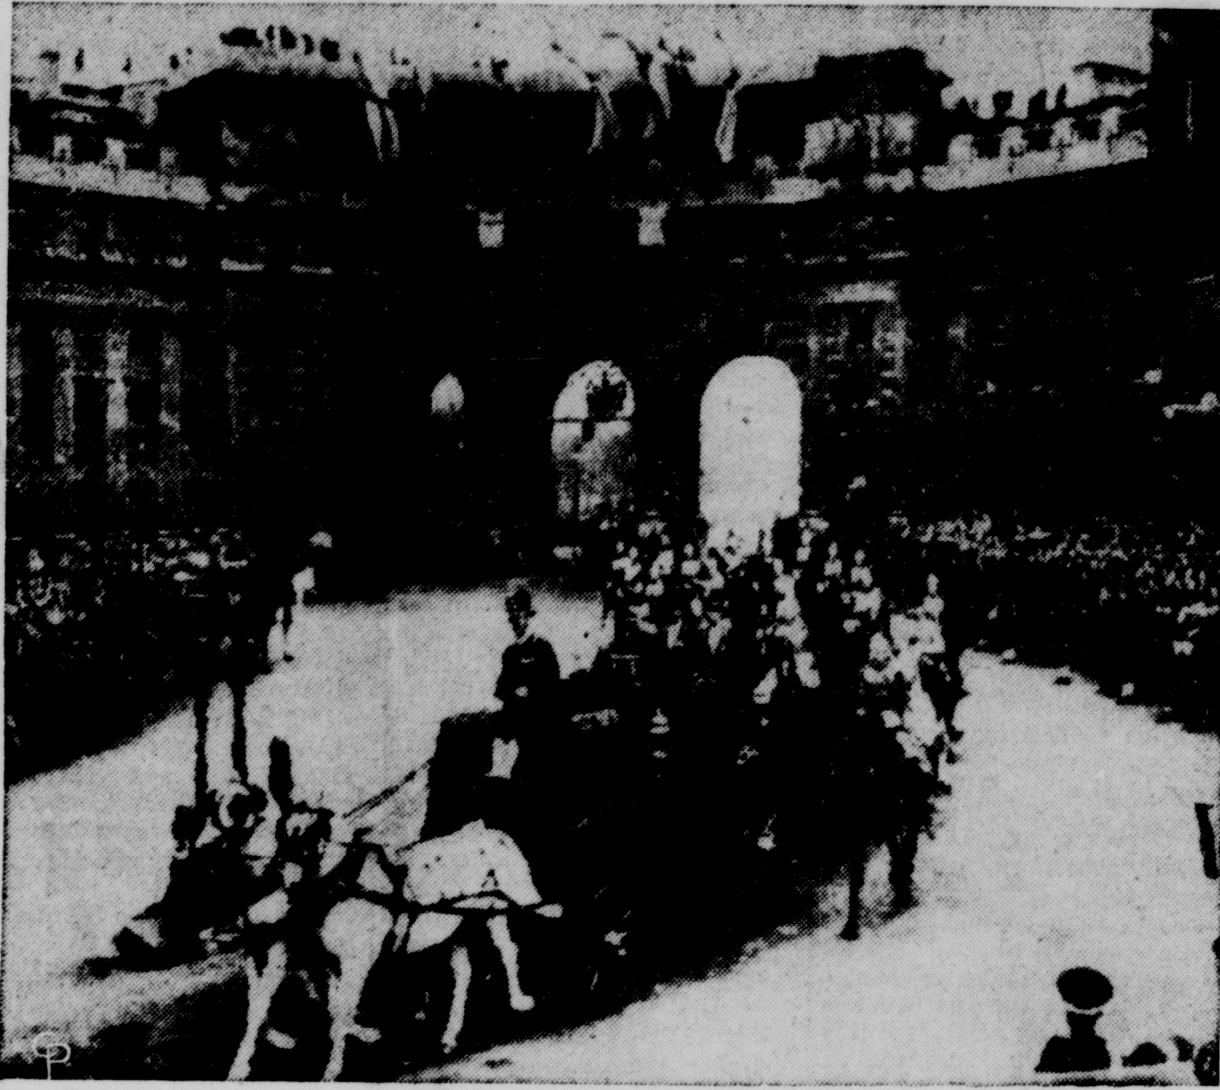

Security forces on the boundaries between Jaffa and the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv were alerted to prevent outbreaks of inter-communal violence.

At least 30,000 British soldiers are known to have been withdrawn from Palestine in the last 60 days and docks are piled high with British material.

Nov. 27 Set As Holiday

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21—Next Thursday—Nov. 27—was officially proclaimed by Governor Herbert today as Thanksgiving Day in Ohio.

In his formal proclamation issued late yesterday, the governor asked that "our citizens give thanks to God, being mindful of the desperate plight of other peoples in the world."

In first row at right are Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mother Mary. King George VI is at left of altar group. Only about 2,500 guests—nearly all of royal blood—witnessed the ceremony. But outside the Abbey, thousands of cheering Britons awaited Elizabeth as she stepped from the ancient structure. Immediately after the ceremony, the newly-married couple went to Buckingham Palace and then for a two-week honeymoon at picturesque Hampshire estate, 70 miles outside London. Later, they will go into Scotland for another two weeks.

The progress of inclement weather toward Ohio was being delayed today, but forecasters said that some rain can be expected by tomorrow.

Foul Weather Being Delayed

A western storm area was moving north over the Lake Superior area after leaving heavy amounts of snow in midwestern states.

There was a depth of 16 inches at Duluth, Minn., and the range was from six to 12 inches throughout the Dakotas and Wisconsin.

Forecasters said conditions would be mild and windy tomorrow, with the rain continuing into Sunday. Colder temperatures and snow flurries were forecast for Sunday night.

Hitchhikers Slay Autoist

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 21—Two young Michigan hitchhikers were held at Richmond today in connection with the slaying of Kenneth Luhn, 25-year-old Lake Orion, Mich., auto worker and the theft of his car.

Luhn died early today in Grace hospital, Detroit. Police said Theodore E. Hall, 21, of Rochester, Mich., and Charles Pickett, 20, of Pontiac, Mich., admitted they shot Luhn three times and fled in his car.

Appeal Eyed

ASHTABULA, O., Nov. 21—James P. Griffin, director of District 26, CIO-United Steelworkers of America, began drawing up an appeal today following a contempt of court fine of $200 and a 10-day jail sentence levied at nearby Jefferson. Sentence was deferred until Dec. 20.

Princess, Prince Retire To Broadlands Estate

ROMSEY, Eng., Nov. 21—Britain's royal honeymooners today ate their first breakfast together as man and wife.

The menu prepared by the efficient housekeeper at the Broadlands estate in Romsey, where Princess Elizabeth and the new Duke of Edinburgh retired after their spectacular London marriage, included eggs, tea, toast and marmalade.

Britain's radiant future queen, tired but tremendously happy after what she described as a "wonderful wedding," stepped across the threshold of her honeymoon home last night after a swift 70-mile journey from Buckingham palace.

The 21-year-old princess and her sailor husband will spend the first two weeks of their honeymoon at the picturesque Hampshire estate, and then travel to Balmoral castle in Scotland for two more weeks.

AS SOON as he and his bride drove up to the Broadlands mansion, young Prince Philip quickly opened the door and offered a hand to help his wife from the automobile before the chauffeur had time to close his gaping mouth.

The handsome groom who had held the bride's hand whenever possible during the day—from the instant the Archbishop of Canterbury pronounced them man and wife at Westminster Abbey—was still holding tightly to her hand when they entered the house.

Philip did not carry the royal bride over the threshold as do less royal young bridegrooms.

Exhausted as the bride must have been by her tumultuous wedding in London, delirious with happiness and cheers, she insisted on inspecting her honeymoon home at once.

The butler, Frank Randall, showed them over the suite of nine beautiful rooms which they will occupy.

Elizabeth was delighted with everything. Her young face was joyous as she went from room to room of the first house in her life where she will reign as mistress.

Melee Ends CIO Walkout

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—A strike disturbance outside the Cory Corporation plant resulted today in the arrest of 161 persons, about 50 of them women.

Scores of others, including policemen, suffered bloody noses, swollen lips and bumps on the head.

The melee lasted about 25 minutes when 75 policemen undertook the task of dispersing the crowd gathered about the plant.

'Deal Hanging' Officials Say Of New Plant

Although all indications still point to the erection of a large industrial plant in Circleville, neither officials of the local Chamber of Commerce nor the unnamed company had made an official announcement as of Friday noon.

Officials said several details still were incomplete. Officials of the company met in their New York offices Thursday and were continuing conferences Friday.

The proposed factory would provide employment for about 700 persons with an annual payroll of about $1,000,000. A new factory building would be erected here at a cost of $2,500,000.

Rumors to the contrary, officials emphasized that "the deal still is hanging."

Meyers Admits Backing Order For War Plant

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers admitted today that he suggested to an aircraft builder that the company which he set up in Ohio for his "girl friend" and her husband, be given a government subcontract.

Meyers, who held a key position in the Air Forces procurement program, told the war investigating committee, however, that he made no recommendation with no thought of profit for himself.

He testified: "The only interest I had in the company (Aviation Electric Corp., of Dayton) was to see the Lammars get along."

He was referring to Bleriot Lammare, president of Aviation Electric, and Lammare's wife, Mildred. Meyers has testified that the only reason he set up the company was to bring Mrs. Lammare, who he said was his "girl friend" from 1936 to 1940, from California to Dayton.

A COMMITTEE spokesman said it was "doubtful" whether Gen. H. H. Arnold, wartime Air Forces chief, would be heard today.

Arnold had been expected to answer Meyers' claim that he OK'd Meyers' ownership of aviation stocks. He also was expected to be questioned on why an anonymous letter charging Meyers with war profiteering was never investigated, but sent to "secret files."

Former Grocer Settles Charge

Charles Callihan, former West Mill street grocer, who was returned to Circleville from Ashland, Ky., by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff Thursday on a warrant charging him with obtaining goods under false pretense, was released Friday morning.

Mr. Callihan, who has remarried since leaving Circleville, was required to answer a non-support charge filed against him by his former wife, Georgia, of Maplewood Avenue, mother of 7 children.

Since leaving Circleville, the home in which his former wife and children are living, has been advertised for sale by a loan company.

After settling the non-support charge, paying the $100 and costs fixed by the court, he agreed to cede the home over to his former wife.

A. W. Kirkpatrick filed the charge against Callihan for obtaining goods under false pretense which Sheriff Charles Radcliff said was settled by Callihan.

Blum Raps Both Reds, De Gaulle

Police Raids Nip Arson Attempts

PARIS, Nov. 21—Socialist Leader and Premier-Designate Leon Blum asked the French national assembly for support of a "public safety" coalition government today amidst spreading strikes and disorders.

As Blum attacked both Communists and Gen. Charles De Gaulle, French police cleared sit-down strikers from a suburban munitions plant.

The lightning raid was believed designed to prevent an alleged Communist arson plot against strike-bound factories.

Blum told the assembly: "The situation is grave—the republic is in danger—the republic which for us means the fatherland."

"THE DANGER is twofold. On one hand international Communism openly has declared war on French democracy."

"On the other hand there is a party in France whose goal—perhaps its only goal—is to deprive the people of their fundamental rights."

"I am here to try to rally all Republicans, all those who refuse to suffer impersonal dictatorship, not of the proletariat but of a political party, and all those who refuse to seek help

Envoys Hear Cominform Due For Latins

PARIS, Nov. 21—Authoritative diplomatic sources in Paris disclosed today that reports have been received indicating that Communist plans are underway for establishing a "cominform" in the western hemisphere.

Headquarters of this international Communist organization in the western hemisphere would, according to these reports, be established in Latin America—probably a step in organizing a world "cominform" on a regional basis.

Two capitals reportedly are being considered by the Communists for headquarters of the organization. They are Montevideo, Uruguay, and Mexico City.

These reports are being taken seriously in some western diplomatic circles, and there is reason to believe—these informants say—that all Latin American governments have, or soon will be, alerted concerning them.

THESE DIPLOMATS who are aware of the reports are convinced that Soviet Russia is behind this move to extend the cominform to the western hemisphere, especially to the Latin countries.

They further believe that it is part of a grand strategy plan adopted at the secret September meeting in Poland of Communist leaders from nine European countries, under the leadership of Marshal A. A. Zhdanov, of the Moscow politburo.

Burn Victim Reported Fair

Guy Drum, Amanda, who was seriously burned when a gas-line stove exploded in a farm building near Amanda Wednesday, was reported to be in fair condition in Berger hospital Friday morning.

Mr. Drum was helping Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Binkley dress turkeys when the accident occurred. Mrs. Binkley, mother of five children, died of burns Thursday. Her husband was not hurt seriously.

Mr. Drum is the father of Carl Drum, employee of the First National bank here.

He was referring to Bleriot Lamarre, president of Aviation Electric, and Lamarre's wife, Mildred. Meyers has testified that the only reason he set up the company was to bring Mrs. Lamarre, who he said was his "girl friend" from 1936 to 1940, from California to Dayton.

A COMMITTEE spokesman said it was "doubtful" whether Gen. H. H. Arnold, wartime Air Forces chief, would be heard today.

Arnold had been expected to answer Meyers' claim that he OK'd Meyers' ownership of aviation stocks. He also was expected to be questioned on why an anonymous letter charging Meyers with war profiteering was never investigated, but sent to "secret files."

Former Grocer Settles Charge

Charles Callihan, former West Mill street grocer, who was returned to Circleville from Ashland, Ky., by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff Thursday on a warrant charging him with obtaining goods under false pretense, was released Friday morning.

Mr. Callihan, who has remarried since leaving Circleville, was required to answer a non-support charge filed against him by his former wife, Georgia, of Maplewood Avenue, mother of 7 children.

Since leaving Circleville, the home in which his former wife and children are living, has been advertised for sale by a loan company.

After settling the non-support charge, paying the $100 and costs fixed by the court, he agreed to cede the home over to his former wife.

A. W. Kirkpatrick filed the charge against Callihan for obtaining goods under false pretense which Sheriff Charles Radcliff said was settled by Callihan.

Quake Recorded

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—Rev. Joseph J. Lynch, Fordham university seismologist, reported today that a "fairly severe" earthquake, located 2,450 miles southwest of New York, was recorded last night.

Blum Raps Both Reds, De Gaulle

Police Raids Nip Arson Attempts

PARIS, Nov. 21—Socialist Leader and Premier-Designate Léon Blum asked the French national assembly for support of a "public safety" coalition government today amidst spreading strikes and disorders.

As Blum attacked both Communists and Gen. Charles De Gaulle, French police cleared sit-down strikers from a suburban munitions plant.

The lightning raid was believed designed to prevent an alleged Communist arson plot against strike-bound factories.

Blum told the assembly: "The situation is grave. The republic is in danger—the republic which for us means the fatherland."

"THE DANGER is twofold. "On one hand international Communism openly has declared war on French democracy."

"On the other hand there is a party in France whose goal—perhaps its only goal—is to deprive the people of their fundamental rights."

"I am here to try to rally all 'Republicans, all those who refuse to suffer impersonal dictatorship, not of the proletariat but of a political party, and all those who refuse to seek help (Continued on Page Two)"

Envoys Hear Cominform Due For Latins

PARIS, Nov. 21—Authoritative diplomatic sources in Paris disclosed today that reports have been received indicating that Communist plans are under way for establishing a "cominform" in the western hemisphere.

Headquarters of this international Communist organization in the western hemisphere would, according to these reports, be established in Latin America—probably a step in organizing a world "cominform" on a regional basis.

Two capitals reportedly are being considered by the Communists for headquarters of the organization. They are Montevideo, Uruguay, and Mexico City.

These reports are being taken seriously in some western diplomatic circles, and there is reason to believe—these informants say—that all Latin American governments have, or soon will be, alerted concerning them.

THESE DIPLOMATS who are aware of the reports are convinced that Soviet Russia is behind this move to extend the cominform to the western hemisphere, especially to the Latin countries.

They further believe that it is part of a grand strategy plan adopted at the secret September meeting in Poland of Communist leaders from nine European countries, under the leadership of Marshal A. A. Zhdanov, of the Moscow politburo.

Burn Victim Reported Fair

Guy Drum, Amanda, who was seriously burned when a gasoline stove exploded in a farm building near Amanda Wednesday, was reported to be in fair condition in Berger hospital Friday morning.

Mr. Drum was helping Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Binkley dress turkeys when the accident occurred. Mrs. Binkley, mother of five children, died of burns Thursday. Her husband was not hurt seriously.

Mr. Drum is the father of Carl Drum, employee of the First National bank here.

against this peril in the personal power of one man."

The early-morning police raid occurred as Blum prepared to form a "public safety" coalition government which the Communists have indicated they will try to wreck.

A mounting wave of strikes spread to primary school teachers in the Paris area.

In Bordeaux, all maritime unions of the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor voted to strike.

First reports of the Communist arson plot came when two sit-down workers at the struck Renault plant were seriously injured in a mysterious explosion which rocked a section of the occupied factory during the night. One of the injured men is not expected to live.

POLICE investigators were unable immediately to determine exact cause of the blast but some deputies said they believe it was connected with the theft of a quantity of chlorate potassium and sulphuric acid from the central Renault laboratories last night.

The chemicals were believed sufficient to manufacture several hundred home-made incendiary bombs. Some legislators expressed the belief the thefts are part of a Communist plot to set the torch to plants from which the government attempts to evict sit-down strikers.

Democrat Wins After Recount

CANTON, O., Nov. 21 — Lawrence Kerrigan, Democrat, was declared elected as Massillon's city council president today following a second recount of Nov. 4 ballots by the Stark county election board.

Kerrigan, a former councilman, was the unofficial winner by 49 votes over Earl M. Fricker, Republican, the morning after election. Official tabulation, however, indicated Fricker had won by nine votes. The second recount showed Kerrigan won by 20 votes in a total of 8,794 cast.

Hunter Fined On 2 Counts

Archie Spradlin, 52, of Portsmouth, was fined $15 and costs on each of two counts filed by Game Protector Clarence Francis in Justice of the Peace H. O. Eveland's court Thursday night.

Francis declared Spradlin failed to properly display a hunting license and that he continued hunting along Allen road after the 4 p. m. deadline.

Friers Stolen

County Commissioner Wayne Hoover, Jackson township, reported to the sheriff's office Friday that someone had stolen 15 white rock friers from his chicken house Thursday night.

DEATHS

and Funerals

SUSAN SPANGLER

Susan Kathryn Spangler, 72, widow of Amos Spangler, died at 11:55 p. m. Thursday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Peters, in Fairfield county, near Amanda. She had been in ill health and living with her daughter the past four months. Another daughter, Mrs. William Mogan, lives in San Diego, California.

Other survivors include three sons; Russell, route 1, Ashville; Chester, route 4, Circleville; Floyd, Columbus, ten grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Born in Franklin county, she was the daughter of Adam Mauger and Kathryn Echard, and was a life long member of the Ringgold Evangelical United Brethren church. Funeral services will be Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Ringgold EUB church, with the Rev. Carl Butterbaugh officiating. Friends may call Saturday evening and Sunday morning at the home of the daughter, Mrs. Peters.

Burial will be in Maple Hill cemetery, Stoutsville, under the direction of Defenbaugh funeral home.

SAMUEL GOLDSBERRY

Samuel Goldsberry, 81, died early Friday in the Pickaway County Home. Born in Ross county, he was the son of George Washington Goldsberry and Mary Jane Compton. His widow Sophia survives, resides in the Circleville Home and hospital.

Also surviving are two sons, Carl, Lancaster, and James, Springfield; a step-daughter, Mrs. Minnie Keaton; a step-son, Harry Foltz, Chelsea, Mich.; and two brothers, Ernest of Derby and George of Enterprise.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1:30 p. m. in the Defenbaugh funeral home with the Rev. James Herbst in charge. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday evening.

GEORGE LEASURE

George Leasure, 57, died Thursday at 8 p. m. in his home on route 3, Laurelvale. His wife, Gladys Thimmes, preceded him in death. Born in Hocking county, he was the son of Isaac Leasure and Elizabeth Zadman.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Mildred Ricketts, route 2, Circleville; Mrs. Betty Thurston, route 2, Laurelvale; Miss Georgiann Leasure, route 1, Laurelvale, one grandchild, three brothers and two sisters.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Price, Saturday at 2 p. m. in Pleasant Hill church, South of Adelphi. Burial will be in the church cemetery. The body will remain at Defenbaugh funeral home, Circleville, until time for services.

BENJAMIN BOLENDER

Benjamin Bolender, 86, Pickaway county native, died Thursday at his home, Eastmoor Blvd., Columbus after a short illness.

His survivors are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Lewis Bolender, a son, Thomas Bolender, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Henley, all of Columbus.

Friends may call at the Moody and Straley funeral home after 6 p. m. Friday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the Miller Avenue EUB church, Columbus, with burial in Stoutsville.

figures urge a separate peace by the Western governments with Germany and Austria if the Big Four are unable to draw up treaties.

DIPLOMATIC observers predicted that the shadow of a statement made by the Soviet's Marshall A. A. Zhdanov will hang over the parley.

Zhdanov, secretary of the Communist central committee, openly announced the Soviet's intention to destroy the Marshall Plan.

He made the statement after the establishment of international "cominform" headquarters in Belgrade.

Observers point out that if Molotov comes to the conference with the intent of restoring a spirit of cooperation among the war allies, the Big Four meeting may succeed.

However, they add, if the Russian foreign minister comes with the intent of reiterating Zhdanov's views, the prospects for next week's meeting are bleak.

Philos Lodge No. 64, Knights of Pythias, will be host to the lodges of Stoutsville and Laurelvale Monday night.

The local lodge has set up a plan whereby lodges in the immediate vicinity will be guests of the local order once a month.

An entertaining program has been arranged for this meeting, and lunch will be served at the conclusion of the evening.

The program will be provided by local entertainers. A duo from the Morris EUB church and the "Spiritual Kings," a religious quartet from Circleville, will be heard.

Rev. Carl E. Wilson of the Circleville EUB church will deliver the evening's address.

The committee responsible for the meeting is comprised of Allen Strawser, chairman, Hilar Valentine, Charles Mead and Cecil Andrews.

Runaway Car Is In Mishap

Councilman Ray B. Anderson doubleparked his automobile in front of Mac's tire store, East Main street, Thursday afternoon. While endeavoring to get into the line of traffic, the driver of another auto pushed Anderson's car which rolled down the street and ran into the auto belonging to Earl F. Brobst, of Columbus, police reported.

Brobst's car was parked at a meter and police reported that the left front door was damaged.

Budget Commission Gives New Tax Rates

Pickaway county's budget commission Friday released new tax rates for all taxing districts in the county with the exception of some overlapping areas.

Fred L. Tipton, county auditor; R. G. Colville, treasurer; and Kenneth Robbins, prosecuting attorney, who make up the commission, stated the new rates would go into effect with the December collections.

Although nearly all of the new rates are either the same or lower than previously, Circleville corporation and school district rates have been increased sharply.

It was explained that the $385,000 school bond issue approved by voters in the Circleville school district, would appear under the new levy. Old rate for this district was $11 while the new rate will be $13.80. Circleville corporation's new rate will be $18.80 compared to the old rate of $16.10.

So far, rates have not been determined for the following areas: Harrisburg corporation and school, Deerfield school, and Waterloo school.

The tabulation of new and old rates follows (The commission said that 0.30 mill should be added to all new rates as the special assessment for the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy):

$7,000 Awarded Local Girl In Damage Suit

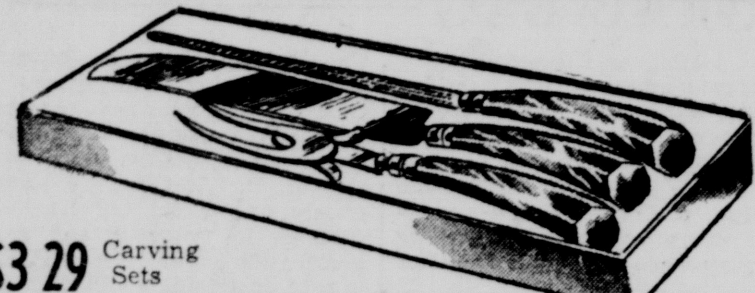

Frances Peters, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peters, 433 East Union street, was awarded $7,000 in damages by Franklin county common pleas court, Columbus, Thursday, for injuries suffered in a traffic accident June 8, 1945.

Lemuel Weldon, attorney for Miss Peters, said the accident occurred when a Midland Grocery Company truck struck the girl while she was walking in a bridge along the highway six miles east of London.

The court heard that the girl had been a patient in Berger hospital, Circleville, 37 days and had suffered multiple fractures of the pelvis.

Ashville

Ashville members of the Ashville - Lockbourne Brotherhood dart ball team won a practice double-header from Lockbourne players Wednesday evening in the Ashville church by scores of 2 to 1, and 4 to 1.

The Ashville P. T. A. met Thursday evening. The members voted to contribute $100 to the Band Boosters club with more to be given later in the year. A committee was appointed to make plans for greater recognition of pupils making high scholastic grades. The program consisted of a vocal solo by Mary Lou Cloud, a movie "The Teacher Crisis," and a panel discussion of "The Crisis in Education," conducted by H. J. Bowers, state supervisor of teacher certification.

Dr. C. W. Cromley, C. O. Rush, and Walter Hedges have returned from a hunting trip in Michigan. Mr. Rush and Mr. Hedges each succeeded in bagging a deer.

Mrs. Roger Hedges substituted in the commercial department of the local high school Wednesday for Miss Doyle who was ill.

Ashville men entertained Lockbourne members of the Lutheran Brotherhood to a chicken supper in the Ashville church Wednesday evening. Besides the business meeting, a dart ball game was played.

Mrs. Ness Smith is improving after suffering a stroke early this week.

The Ashville high school general science class, accompanied by Superintendent Walter L. Harris, went to Columbus Tuesday to get some first hand information on subjects recently studied in class. Both the Columbus waterworks and the light plant were inspected by the class.

A donkey basket ball game, will be held in the school auditorium Saturday evening. A nominal admission fee will be charged by the seniors who are sponsoring the game.

The Ashville P. T. A. will meet Thursday night in the Ashville school with a panel discussion on schools as the main part of the program.

A near-capacity crowd enjoyed the senior class Talent Night program in the school auditorium Tuesday. The program prepared by the contestants was above average, and judges reported having difficulty in selecting winners.

Prizes were awarded to the following elementary pupils: First, Sharon Pontius, clarinet solo; second, Judy Smart, recitation; third, Mary Lou Cloud, vocal solo. In the high school group, Mary Fudge and Clara Lou Peters were given first prize for their piano duet, and Marilyn Bowers, second for a monologue. An extra prize was awarded to the sophomores for their interesting playlet "Ten Percent Tommy."

Other numbers on the program were "Oh, Teacher," a play by seniors; vocal solo, Phyllis Bozman; vocal solo, Nancy Burns; German band, Charles Messick, Jim Ward, Robert Swoyer, Elmer Malone, and Bryan Grant; vocal solo, Maxine Younk; baton twirling, Mona Lee Maddox; vocal solo, Dolores Tustin; tap dance, Sandy Mahoney; vocal solo, Betty Badger; saxophone duet, Louise Swingle and Faye Johnson. Judges for the contest were George D. McDowell, Harry L. Margulis, and Mrs. Rolland Featheringham. A cake auction was held with Walter Coleman of the seniors acting as auctioneer.

Proceeds will go to pay the expenses of the annual senior trip to Washington, D. C. Mrs. H. D. Fudge, senior class sponsor, and the class wish to thank all who helped to make the evening a success.

CHANGING CHINA

PARENTS, obey your children. This is the new order in Communist China, according to Michael Keon, an Australian writer who has just returned from a visit there. The traditional organization of the family along patriarchal lines, with the father ruling his children and his father ruling him, is being replaced.

There are now children's associations which regulate the conduct of their members. This is something like the United States, where the privileges of Bobby Jones and Susie Brown are cited by the Smith children as precedents for their being treated likewise; but it is apparently more extensive.

Other changes include greater freedom for women, who now take part in public meetings, and village government by meetings of the citizens instead of by a little group of elders. These two innovations will generally be applauded, as both are on lines that the United States has found to work well.

When even conservative China changes, the seekers after the good old days will be hard put to it to find a refuge.

RUSSIA AND THE UKRAINE

THERE may be resistance to the government in Russia. Reports from Munich speak of a Ukrainian insurgent army, which has had clashes with Russian troops and now has ceased fighting because the people hope for war between Russia and the United States.

This may be all dream stuff. What is certain, however, is that there has long been a nationalistic movement in the Ukraine, dating back to the 17th century. The Ukrainian Cossacks then revolted from Polish rule, and despairing of victory turned their allegiance to Russia. They have regretted it ever since. Ukrainian patriots have fostered the local culture, and emphasized the differences, not very great but existing, between the Ukrainian language and the Russian.

As the most fertile region in Russia, the Ukraine is indispensable to the Russians, but the government might possibly be induced to concede some measure of local home rule. This would put an end to the riots, which are probably all that underlies this story of the Ukrainian insurgent army.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts must be an uncommon man. Offered his state's support as a favorite son candidate for President, he declines, saying that his sole ambition is to be a good senator. Most senators would interpret even a whispered suggestion that they run for President as a deafening roar of public sentiment.

George E. Sokolsky's

THESE DAYS

The only really effective job done by the Luckman Committee was to shut down the American distilleries for 60 days. Luckman did not shut down the Canadian or the British distilleries, which have increased their output with a view to exporting increasing amounts to the United States. In a word, Luckman slapped down American companies and American workers in the interest of their foreign competitors.

He might have sought a universal agreement for a world-wide distiller's holiday or he might have been forewarned that such a program would have been unacceptable. The American annual consumption of distilled liquors amounts to $5,100,000,000, a little more than half of which goes into federal, state and local taxes.

The idea behind this shutdown of the distilleries was to ease the export of wheat by saving corn at the time when it was most needed, supposedly the period until the beginning of November. By prohibiting the distilleries to buy the corn, this grain would be available to the farmer, who would then use it for feed instead of wheat.

Actually, before the shutdown became a reality on October 25, the Department of Agriculture and the commercial exporters had bought three-fifths to two-thirds of the highest amount of grain which they thought would be exported. We were told to save 100,000,000 bushels of wheat or its equivalent in other grains. It would seem that the European distillers and brewers of 10 countries estimated that they would require 71,000,000 bushels of grain for their purposes. Altogether 16 countries are involved so that this estimate is low. In a word, the American people are asked to save about as much grain as the European alcohol beverage industry needs to use. And it makes no sense to say that they will use their grain for liquors and ours for feed. Nobody can make that kind of a separation.

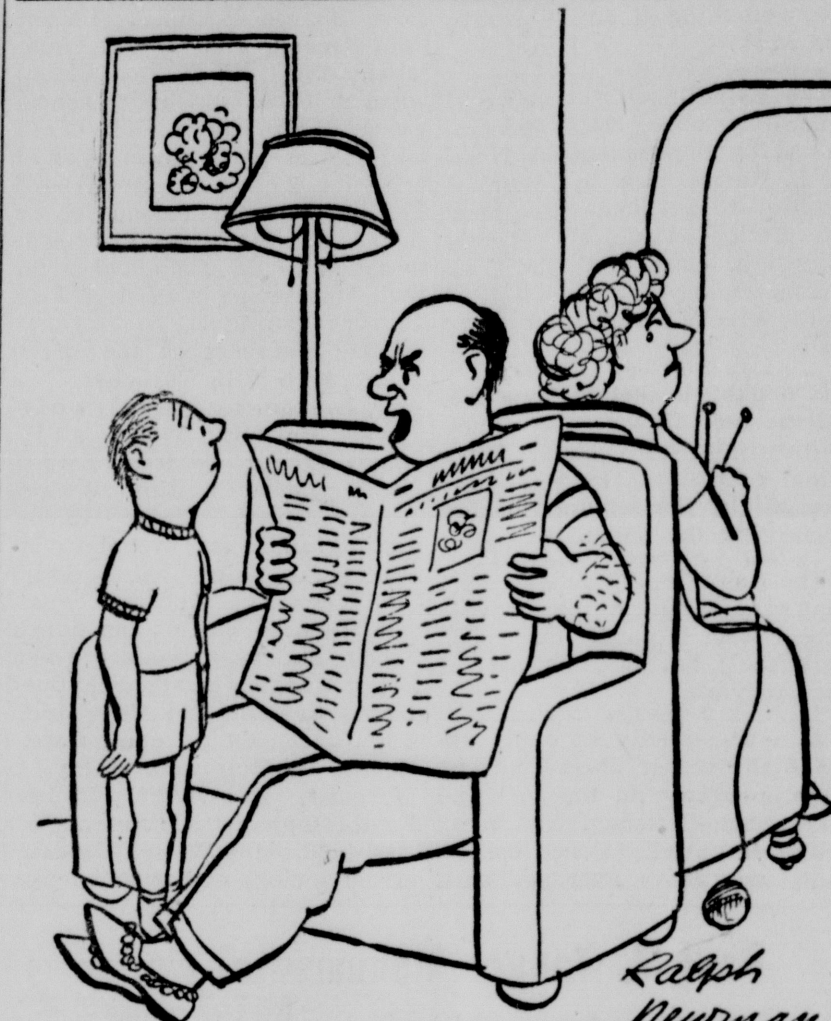

Distillers, brewers and all other interested processors of grains, anticipating restrictions, bought aggressively in September and October. This added to the tightening of the markets. In fact, at the end of the year, it will be evident that no grain was saved in this manner, although the distribution may be slightly altered.

The American distillers deliver as remnants of the distilling process large quantities of feed. These "distillers grains" are high quality feeds because little value in calories and vitamins is lost. In fact, some claim that in the manufacturing process, the amount of vitamin A is increased. Whether this is actually so or not is a scientific argument that I do not want to get into. The farmers who use this feed can no longer get it as the distilleries are shut down. They, therefore, have to use other feeds for their cattle.

When the Paris Conference convened, the various countries were asked to give data about their use of grains. Ten of them stated, to repeat, their total intended usage for alcoholic beverages in 1947-48 as 71,000,000 bushels. Thus, by shutting down our distilleries, by restricting our breweries, by culling our poultry flocks excessively, it is made possible for foreign countries to produce alcoholic beverages equal to the Luckman program for saving grain. Great Britain is expected to use for distilling during the current year about 8,000,000 bushels of barley. When our distilleries were forced to shut down, the Scotch distillers declared that under no circumstances would they do

Methods of Relieving Hives Until Allergy Can Be Found

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHILE hives, or as the doctors call it, urticaria, is not dangerous, it can drive a patient almost to the point of distraction by the intense itching it causes.

The cause of this condition, in which the skin breaks out in large, red welts, is not known, but there is much evidence that it may be due to an allergy or oversensitivity to certain foods, drugs, or even to chemicals which merely come in contact with the skin.

Allergic Person

Since the allergic person is a law unto himself and may be adversely affected by things which are perfectly harmless to others, the substances which cause hives are innumerable. If such substances can be discovered, either through experience or skin testing, the individual can, of course, escape hives by avoiding contact with the offending items.

In many cases, however, it is often impossible to trace down the troublemaker. In addition, some individuals are sensitive to so many different things that it would be impossible to avoid them all, even if they could be identified.

Relief for Hives

For these reasons, methods of relieving the swelling and itching of hives are important and, from time to time, many have been suggested. One which has been found helpful is the taking of a preparation of vitamin K, or nicotinic acid, which is a part of the vitamin B-complex, and calcium or lime preparations.

Recently two new drugs, which are helpful in the treatment of a number of disorders due to allergy have also been found most effective in relieving hives.

These two substances are benadryl and pyribenzamine. The pyribenzamine, taken in capsule form, has been found almost 100 per cent successful in relieving hives due to allergy. It has also been found that this substance in an ointment applied directly to the skin may bring relief in a number of cases of eczema and other itching skin diseases.

This treatment, it must be remembered, is not a cure for hives or eczema, but it does bring relief from these skin disorders.

Taken by Mouth

Benadryl also is taken by mouth. Sometimes, in cases where hives become chronic or long-continued, benadryl is also effective, but it must be taken continually. When its use is stopped, the rash is likely to recur.

Drs. Paul A. O'Leary and Eugene M. Farber of the Mayo Clinic, have found benadryl effective in both acute and chronic cases of hives. Of course, it should be employed only under the directions of a physician, in doses which he prescribes, since reactions to the drug may occur.

However, in only a few instances were these reactions severe enough to make it necessary to stop the use of the drug completely, so long as the patients remained under a doctor's supervision.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. W.: I have had ringing of the ears for four years. Can you tell me what to do for this condition?

Answer: Ringing in the ears is due to a number of causes such as anemia, kidney disease, or an accumulation of wax in the ear, as well as to an infection in the tube connecting the ear with the mouth. It is advisable to have a physical examination to determine the cause of this condition.

CHAPTER ONE

"GOING HOME! Going home! Going home!"

To others aboard the train the wheels might go "Clickety-clack, clickety-clack!" but to Cathy Layne, perched on the edge of her seat, her eager eyes on the flying landscape outside, the wheels said, "Going home!"

How many long, weary months in the steaming South Pacific had she wondered if she would ever be going home again! Her tiny body in the smartly cut uniform of the Army Nurse Corps was almost rigid as she watched each beloved, once familiar, now strange scene flash past. Her brown-gold curls, tucked neatly beneath the provocative little oversize cap, topped a face that was still a lovely oval, despite hollows in her cheeks, the faint circles beneath her eyes. She had been very ill and she was desperately tired; but she had sixty blessed days of leave before she must report for another assignment, or for discharge. And she meant to spend those sixty days doing very little save resting, eating, sleeping—and being with Bill. The very thought of Bill, never far from her heart and mind even during the age-long months of horror and destruction, brought a lovely color to her face and lit a sparkle in her tired eyes.

The conductor came through the train and paused beside her to say pleasantly, "Fifteen minutes more, Lieutenant. Bet it's going to seem mighty good to be home again."

She laughed up at him radiantly. "It's the one thing I've longed for for twenty-six months," she told him joyously.

The conductor was middle-aged, and his face was worn and tired. But now as he looked down at the girl he seemed younger and less tired, as though there was something rejuvenating in her frank happiness.

"I'll bet your folks are going to be mighty glad to see you," he said kindly.

There was for a moment a shadow against her happiness. "I haven't any folks," she said. "Just a friend or two—but they are very dear to me. My parents have been dead since I was a little girl."

"Oh, I'm sorry," said the conductor. His kind eyes took in the beauty that was apparent despite her thinness and her obvious weariness. "But I'll bet you'll be a nice young man waiting on the station platform—or did you leave him somewhere back in the Pacific?"

Cathy's color deepened and she laughed.

"No, he'll be waiting here," she answered warmly.

"He's a lucky guy," said the conductor. "You girls did a mighty fine job. Lieutenant—a mighty fine job. Nobody in this country is ever going to forget it."

"Thank you," said Cathy simply. "We were glad to do whatever we could. It was a privilege."

The man nodded in quiet understanding.

"I guess you felt that. You'd have to feel something like that to go through what you did," he said. "I had a couple of nurses with me on this run some months ago—girls who had been prisoners of war at Cabanatuan. They seemed to feel as you do."

"I was one of the lucky ones," Cathy told him.

He nodded and went on his way. When the train halted at the Cypressville station, he came back to carry her bag to the station platform and shook hands with her before he swung back aboard the train.

For a moment Cathy looked about her, quick with delight at the loved familiarity of the old, dingy station. Nothing had changed; it was all as she remembered it. And then her heart did a nose dive, for there was no one to meet her.

Where was Bill? She had wired him the time of her arrival, taking it for granted he would be as eager to see her as she was to see him—yet he was not here. A few people peered at her curiously as they hurried by, but no one spoke. After all, she'd been gone three years, and the war had struck Cypressville, bringing to it many strangers to work in the big cy- press and lumber mills which gave the town of thirty thousand its reason for existence.

But to come home—her heart racing ahead of her, so eager for a sight of Bill that the last few hours had seemed unendurably long—and then not to have him meet her—

Behind her a warm, eager voice said, "Well, bless you, child, here you are—and I'm that glad to see you!"

Warm arms enfolded her, and Cathy laughed and cried as the woman patted her back and kissed her cheek.

"Well, well, if it ain't a sight for sore eyes to see you and alive, the way I've worried about you!"

It was Aunt Maggie Westbrook, big, kindly, warm-hearted; the woman who had taken a frightened, big-eyed ten-year-old girl, when her mother died, and given her a home. Aunt Maggie, who was not really a relative at all, but a neighbor who had known and loved Cathy's mother and who had been unable to see the small Cathy go to an institution.

They clung together for a moment, and then Aunt Maggie wiped her eyes and blew her nose vigorously. "Well, good grief," she said, "ain't no sense in us standing here howling our heads off. I bet you'd like a hot bath and a good night's sleep and some real victuals more than anything in the world just about now. I've got the Betsy-Bug right over here."

Scooping up Cathy's bag in one strong, ample hand, her other arm about the girl, Aunt Maggie sailed across the platform. "Sailed" was a good word, Cathy told herself halfway between tears and laughter, for though Aunt Maggie was big and heavy she moved with an astonishing lightness; her unfashionably long skirts billowed a little with the energy of her movement and gave the impression of a sturdy, dependable sailing ship in a strong wind.

"Aunt Maggie"—Cathy paused beside the ancient car which Aunt Maggie alternately reviled and ca- joled and abused—"where is Bill?"

Aunt Maggie looked unhappy, but said casually, "He's out of town, chick. That old harridan sent him away yesterday on a business trip." Aunt Maggie's tone put quotation marks about the last two words.

"But he knew I was coming home. I wired him," protested Cathy.

"Want to bet he never laid eyes on the message? Not if you sent it to the house. The old battle-axe would have hid it from him," said Aunt Maggie grimly, as she inserted her ample body behind the wheel of the little car that she fondly called the Betsy-Bug.

"Oh, but surely she wouldn't do that!"

"Look, chick, that woman would do anything if she thought she could get away with it! I wouldn't put anything past her! She's so darned scared that her precious boy will snap her apron strings and find a life of his own—and a wife—where she can't boss him around."

Cathy frowned, remembering Edith Kendall, the arrogant woman who was Bill's aunt, so jealously possessive that she couldn't bear for him to have a thought in which she did not share. Cathy's chin tilted a little and her eyes went dark. Well, she loved Bill and Bill loved her, and they were going to be married whether he had his Aunt Edith's consent or not. It was too utterly absurd, she told herself furiously. Bill was twenty-eight; that his aunt should attempt to interfere in his life to the extent of preventing his marriage was simply unthinkable.

They were driving through the busy small city now, and Aunt Maggie was briskly giving a resume of business changes in the slightly more than three years since Cathy had gone away to complete her training as an army nurse. There were a few aggressively mirror-fronted shops, but the old ones that were part of Cathy's memories were still there, and gradually, in the thrill of being home, she forgot a little of her hurt that Bill was not here.

Leaving the business district, the Betsy-Bug made its sedate way at twenty-five miles an hour through a district that grew increasingly prosperous-looking until it came to a climax at an impressive yellow hill, with a sweep of velvety lawn dotted with beautiful old trees. Beneath the warm touch of spring, the trees were thin leaves that were like curled baby fists, and there were borders of tulips and daffodils and hyacinths all along the gravelled drive.

One-Minute Test

2. What great poem begins, "The curfew tolls the knell of parting day"?
3. What nonsense verse starts, "They went to sea in a sieve they did"?

Words of Wisdom

For my part, I am not so sure at bottom that man is, as he says, the king of nature; he is far more its devastating tyrant. I believe he has many things to learn from animal societies, older than his own and of infinite variety.—Roman Rolland.

Hints on Etiquette

If you are invited to a bridge party, but you do not play, or play poorly, either take some lessons and study the game so as to be a good partner, or decline the invitation. Don't embarrass yourself and annoy others by trying to play when you are ignorant of the game.

Today's Horoscope

You are somewhat sensitive, if today is your birthday anniversary, but considerate of the feelings and opinions of others. You are prompt, dependable, able and competent; an ardent reader, clear thinker, and an interesting and entertaining conversationalist. Your home is dear to you and you are very fond of children.

The day's influences are adverse, unless you can hold others to their word. In your next year you will derive benefit from an elderly woman, also from unexpected sources, but watch your affairs closely and avoid the law and dealings in property, and guard your health. The child who is born on this date will gain and suffer less through elders. Monetary difficulties will often occasion anxiety, and speculation should be avoided.

NEW YORK—"The room is cold," my friend from England had said just a few days before. "I don't mean it's physically cold, but it's bleak and unfriendly and even the straight chair isn't comfortable. I eat a bite of dinner, for maybe a dollar or so, and then I go home to bed. That's the way life has been, the last few weeks."

My friend from England had been over here since spring and the going was a little rough. He was too proud to take money, but he was desperately lonely in this city, which can be the most indifferent of all. I don't know at all about autumn in London but certainly it must have some sights and sounds of its own that make it dear to the Briton, and my friend must remember them.

I forgot, I guess, about what he had said until just last night, when I had occasion to spend a few minutes in the lobby of one of the cheap little hotels in the Forties. Then it all came back to me, for here was the dreary life he had pictured.

His was a different hotel, a few blocks north, but it could have been this one. There are about 15 of them in this one block between Broadway and Sixth avenue—down-at-the-heel, musty dumps with neon signs in front and parts of the letters in the signs blacked out like missing teeth.

There are worse inns than these in New York—down on the Bowery, for example, where the bums flop on floors for a quarter a night—but they at least have the redeeming quality of being extreme. This one, like its companions along the nervous, jumpy little street, is just a saggy building with a few pretensions of class, dull and empty.

A YOUNG GIRL WITH THICK EYEGLASSES sat on a leather-and-chrome chair that maybe 10 years ago was new, and sipped at a bottle of pop. The man with her, maybe her husband, sat in the next chair, idly fingering another bottle of pop and studying a racing sheet.

An old lady sat across the two-by-four lobby in another of the ragged "modern" chairs, a pile of newspapers on her lap and other papers scattered around her feet.

There was a bellhop leaning against a wall and there was a big, skinny guy standing next to one of the two big, chipped pillars that marked the lobby like the poles in the basement of a church.

There were two sharp characters sitting side by side near the swinging glass doors and they studied the women who went in or out. Studied them quietly and almost dismally, for there were no faerie queens in the lot. They were middle-aged, most of them, and, aside from jaunty hats which they all seemed to sport on their graying heads, they were dressed drably in black or neutral colors.

To the left of the lobby, right behind a dusty brass spittoon, was the focal point—the newstand. I wonder if you have any idea of the importance of the newstand in a cheap hotel in New York. They come down from the cold little rooms and the moment they emerge from the rickety elevator they head for the stand.

You can spend a good five minutes or so studying the magazines and papers, or buying cigarettes, and since the days and nights are long and ending in nothingness, it helps very much to spend those five minutes.

Once the paper is bought, or the cigarettes, they study their cheap watches and decide that maybe it is time for dinner or at least near it. They drift slowly down the steps and out of the lobby, pull the frayed topcoats a little closer and head down the street for a cheap restaurant. They go west if the wind is blowing that way or east if it's blowing that way. The meal itself—does it matter? Keeping warm is more to the point.

THERE IS A COCKTAIL BAR off the lobby and you can hear the noise coming through the closed doors, but in the lobby itself everything is stationary and quiet. Everything is as if everyone is waiting—only God knows for what.

They sit and read or they sit and stare, or they throw a glance outside at the people hurrying by. Once in a while someone for whom they have been waiting comes into the cheap little hotel and then they fuss over them and circle around them like dogs with wagging tails, making what Hollywood calls a production out of the greeting.

However, mostly they just sit and wait and no one comes, and around eleven or so they clear out of the lobby and walk into the elevator and go upstairs to the cold room to bed. It is this life my friend from England is living now and it bothers me but there does not seem to be a thing to do. I hope his hotel has a newstand.

It pleases us that so many women bank here. Whether you want a business or personal checking account—we'll be mighty pleased to have you start it here.

CHANGING CHINA

PARENTS, obey your children. This is the new order in Communist China, according to Michael Keon, an Australian writer who has just returned from a visit there. The traditional organization of the family along patriarchal lines, with the father ruling his children and his father ruling him, is being replaced.

There are now children's associations which regulate the conduct of their members. This is something like the United States, where the privileges of Bobby Jones and Susie Brown are cited by the Smith children as precedents for their being treated likewise; but it is apparently more extensive.

Other changes include greater freedom for women, who now take part in public meetings, and village government by meetings of the citizens instead of by a little group of elders. These two innovations will generally be applauded, as both are on lines that the United States has found to work well.

When even conservative China changes, the seekers after the good old days will be hard put to it to find a refuge.

RUSSIA AND THE UKRAINE

THERE may be resistance to the government in Russia. Reports from Munich speak of a Ukrainian insurgent army, which has had clashes with Russian troops and now has ceased fighting because the people hope for war between Russia and the United States.

This may be all dream stuff. What is certain, however, is that there has long been a nationalistic movement in the Ukraine, dating back to the 17th century. The Ukrainian Cossacks then revolted from Polish rule, and despairing of victory turned their allegiance to Russia. They have regretted it ever since. Ukrainian patriots have fostered the local culture, and emphasized the differences, not very great but existing, between the Ukrainian language and the Russian.

As the most fertile region in Russia, the Ukraine is indispensable to the Russians, but the government might possibly be induced to concede some measure of local home rule. This would put an end to the riots, which are probably all that underlies this story of the Ukrainian insurgent army.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts must be an uncommon man. Offered his state's support as a favorite son candidate for President, he declines, saying that his sole ambition is to be a good senator. Most senators would interpret even a whispered suggestion that they run for President as a deafening roar of public sentiment.

THESE DAYS

The only really effective job done by the Luckman Committee was to shut down the American distilleries for 60 days. Luckman did not shut down the Canadian or the British distilleries, which have increased their output with a view to exporting increasing amounts to the United States. In a word, Luckman slapped down American companies and American workers in the interest of their foreign competitors.

He might have sought a universal agreement for a world-wide distiller's holiday or he might have been forewarned that such a program would have been unacceptable. The American annual consumption of distilled liquors amounts to $5,100,000,000, a little more than half of which goes into federal, state and local taxes.

The idea behind this shutdown of the distilleries was to ease the export of wheat by saving corn at the time when it was most needed, supposedly the period until the beginning of November. By prohibiting the distilleries to buy the corn, this grain would be available to the farmer, who would then use it for feed instead of wheat.

Actually, before the shutdown became a reality on October 25, the Department of Agriculture and the commercial exporters had bought three-fifths to two-thirds of the highest amount of grain which they thought would be exported. We were told to save 100,000,000 bushels of wheat or its equivalent in other grains. It would seem that the European distillers and brewers of 10 countries estimated that they would require 71,000,000 bushels of grain for their purposes. Altogether 16 countries are involved so that this estimate is low. In a word, the American people are asked to save about as much grain as the European alcohol beverage industry needs to use. "I'll bet your folks are going to be mighty glad to see you," he said kindly.

There was for a moment a shadow against her happiness.

"I haven't any folks," she said. "Just a friend or two—but they are very dear to me. My parents have been dead since I was a little girl."

"Oh, I'm sorry," said the conductor. His kind eyes took in the beauty that was apparent despite her thinness and her obvious weariness. "But I'll bet you there'll be a nice young man waiting on the station platform—or did you leave him somewhere back in the Pacific?"

Cathy's color deepened and she laughed. "No, he'll be waiting here," she answered warmly.

"He's a lucky guy," said the conductor. "You girls did a mighty fine job, Lieutenant—a mighty fine job. Nobody in this country is ever going to forget it."

"Thank you," said Cathy simply. "We were glad to do whatever we could. It was a privilege."

The man nodded in quiet understanding.

Words of Wisdom

For my part, I am not so sure at bottom that man is, as he says, the king of nature; he is far more its devastating tyrant. I believe he has many things to learn from animal societies, older than his own and of infinite variety.—Roman Rolland.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves keyed up to high tension, with mind alert to taking chances in a large and radical fashion. And while the thinking processes seem able to fathom difficulties yet a weighty opposition or lack of cooperation from influential sources seems to block all progress. Perhaps the cost may be too steep or the risk too hazardous for speculation, where the investment may be too extravagant or an over-ambitious proposition. "I guess you felt that. You'd have to feel something like that to go through what you did," he said. "I had a couple of nurses with me on this run some months ago—girls who had been prisoners of war at Cabanatuan. They seemed to feel as you do."

"I was one of the lucky ones," Cathy told him.

He nodded and went on his way. When the train halted at the Cypresville station, he came back to carry her bag to the station platform and shook hands with her before he swung back aboard the train.

For a moment Cathy looked about her, quick with delight at the loved familiarity of the old, dingy station. Nothing had changed; it was all as she remembered it. And then her heart did a nose dive, for there was no one to meet her.

Where was Bill? She had wired him the time of her arrival, taking it for granted he would be as eager to see her as she was to see him—yet he was not here. A few people peered at her curiously as they hurried by, but no one spoke.

After all, she'd been gone three years, and the war had struck Cypresville, bringing to it many strangers to work in the big cy-press and lumber mills which gave the town of thirty thousand its reason for existence.

But to come home—her heart racing ahead of her, so eager for a sight of Bill that the last few hours had seemed unendurably long—and then not to have him meet her—

Behind her a warm, eager voice said, "Well, bless you, child, here you are—and I'm that glad to see you!"

Warm arms enfolded her, and Cathy laughed and cried as the woman patted her back and kissed her cheek.

"Well, well, if it ain't a sight for sore eyes to see you again! Cathy, I've missed you—and land alive, the way I've worried about you!"

It was Aunt Maggie Westbrook, big, kindly, warm-hearted; the woman who had taken a frightened, wet, ten-year-old girl, when her mother died, and given her a home. Aunt Maggie, who was not really a relative at all, but a neighbor who was known and loved by Cathy's mother and who had been unable to see the small Cathy go to an institution.

They clung together for a moment, and then Aunt Maggie wiped her eyes and blew her nose vigorously. "Well, good grief, she said, 'ain't no sense in us standing here howling our heads off. I bet you'd like a hot bath and a good night's sleep and some real vittals more than anything in the world just about now. I've got the Betsy-Bug right over here."

Scoping up Cathy's bag in one strong, ample hand, her other arm about the girl, Aunt Maggie sallied across the platform. "Sailed" was a good word, Cathy told herself halfway between tears and laughter, for though Aunt Maggie was big and heavy she moved with an astonishing lightness; her unfashionably long skirts billowed a little with the energy of her movement and gave the impression of a sturdy, dependable sailing ship in a strong wind.

"Aunt Maggie"—Cathy paused beside the ancient car which Aunt Maggie alternately reviled and cajoled and abused—"where is Bill?"

Aunt Maggie looked unhappy, but said casually, "He's out of town, chick. That old hardican sent him away yesterday on a business trip." Aunt Maggie's tone put quotation marks about the last two words.

"But he knew I was coming home, I wired him," protested Cathy.

"Want to bet he never laid eyes on the message? Not if you sent it to the house. The old battle-axe would have hid it from him," said Aunt Maggie grimly, as she inserted her ample body behind the wheel of the little car that she fondly called the Betsy-Bug.

"Oh, but surely she wouldn't do that!"

"Look, chick, that woman would do anything if she thought she could get away with it! I wouldn't put anything past her! She's so darned scared that her precious boy will snap her apron strings and find a life of his own—and a wife—where she can't boss him around."

Cathy frowned, remembering Edith Kendall, the arrogant woman who was Bill's aunt, so jealously possessive that she couldn't bear for him to have a thought in which she did not share. Cathy's chin tilted a little and her eyes went dark. Well, she loved Bill and Bill loved her, and they were going to be married whether he had his Aunt Edith's consent or not. It was too utterly absurd, she told herself furiously. Bill was twenty-eight; that his aunt should attempt to interfere in his life to the extent of preventing his marriage was simply unthinkable.

They were driving through the busy small city now, and Aunt Maggie was briskly giving a resumé of business changes in the slightly more than three years since Cathy had gone away to home. Aunt Maggie, who was not really a relative at all, but a neighbor who was known and loved by Cathy's mother and who had been unable to see the small Cathy go to an institution.

Mrs. Fred Boggs Slates Program For Local Youth Canteen

Supervisors Meet With Youths

The Pickaway County Youth Canteen Parents' association held a joint meeting with members of the youth group Thursday evening in the canteen rooms above the First National bank.

Dr. G. D. Phillips, president of the Parents' association, and Bob Johnson, president of the youth group, were the presiding officers. Mrs. Fred Boggs, new canteen supervisor, outlined a very constructive program for the Youth Canteen. All work has been completed on the canteen rooms and officers noted that it is in satisfactory operation. All interested persons are invited to visit the rooms at any time.

It was announced that officers of the Child Conservation league had sent their second donation of the year to assist in the maintenance of the canteen. This check was written for $35.

Final plans were made by the group for its baked goods and food sale for the benefit of the canteen. This sale will be held in the basement of Betz's restaurant, Court and Main streets, and will start promptly at 11 a. m. Saturday. The youth group and its supervisors served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Plans Set For Christmas Party

Twenty-four members of Pythian Sisters and their guests were present for the regular meeting Thursday evening in the K of P hall. Mrs. Minnie Newton was in charge of the session. Plans were made by the members to have a joint card party with the Knights of Pythias, Miss Ethel Stein, Mrs. Eleanor Edgington and Miss Clarissa Talbot were named to serve on a committee to make arrangements for the card party.

The Christmas party was discussed with December 18 set as the date for the annual event. Each member will bring a 25-cent gift for the Christmas gift exchange and a covered dish. Miss Margie Carmean and Mrs. W. E. Fitzpatrick will serve on the entertainment committee.

A covered-dish supper was served prior to the meeting. Mrs. Mary Tolbert, Mrs. Robert Norris and Mrs. Edgington were in charge of the evening meal. Games and contests were directed by Miss Stein and Mrs. Frank Davis.

Sewing Club Holds Meeting

All members of the Magic Sewing club were present for the meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Walter Arledge, East Ohio street. Among the guests were Mrs. Glenn Hoover, Miss Sarah Anderson, Rita Jean, Walter and Harold Arledge. Sewing occupied the group in the early evening hours, which was followed by games. Mrs. Russell Skaggs and Mrs. Gail Wolf won prizes.

The hostess served a salad course as the guests were seated at small card tables. The Christmas party will be in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Barr. Names were drawn for gift exchange. The December 4th meeting will be in the home of Mrs. John Grubb, South Pickaway street.

Legion Dance

The tuneful melodies of "Mike" Karnes and his trio from Columbus will fill a return engagement Saturday evening at the American Legion home, East Main street. All Legionnaires and their ladies are issued invitations to attend the dance, beginning at 8:45 and continuing until midnight. Entertainment committee members plan to hold dances every other week.

Local Residents Dinner Guests In Lancaster

S. S. Courtney, Canton, entertained with a dinner party in the Pine room at Hotel Lancaster honoring his sister, Miss Ella Courtney, Hillside hotel. The occasion marked the birthday anniversaries of both Miss Courtney and the host.

Covers were laid for 14 guests at the long table centered with an arrangement of orchid and white pumpkins. A birthday cake, topped with pink candles, was placed on a music box stand which played "Happy Birthday".

Present for the affair were: Miss Courtney, Mr. and Mrs. George Eitel and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eitel, Circleville; C. H. Courtney, Zanesville; Mrs. E. D. Roush, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spybe, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller, Miss Ruth Miller and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Courtney, Canton.

Nine Papyrus Members At Meeting

Members of the Papyrus club conducted their bi-monthly meeting at the parsonage of St. Philip's Episcopal church with the Rev. L. C. Sherburne and Mrs. Sherburne being hosts for the occasion.

Members of the club who were present were Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Mrs. Margaret Gillen, Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. W. Emerson Downing, Miss Nell Weldon, Mrs. B. M. Kellstadt, Mrs. A. C. Turner and Mrs. Charles T. Gilmore.

During the evening, Mrs. Jones read parts of an original short story. Mrs. Robinson presented selections from her "Psalms of Sequence"; "Pioneer", "The Patriot, 1864", "The Idealist" and "World Citizen 1948". Mrs. Gilmore concluded the program by reading her original article, "Why I Am Proud To Be An American".

THANKSGIVING IS THEME

Mrs. Ralph Long selected as her topic for the devotional period "Thanksgiving Blessings of 1947", at the regular session of the Shining Light Bible class of the First Evangelical United Brethren church when its members met Thursday evening in the Community house. A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ernest May.

Plans were completed for the Sunday offering of the building fund. The group decided to exchange Christmas gifts ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents at their annual holiday party on December 18. Hostesses for the Christmas party will be Mrs. Edward McClarren, Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Florence Noggle.

The evening's program followed under the direction of Mrs. Iley Greeno. Mrs. C. O. Kerns gave two short readings. Miss Nell Denman played her own accompaniment as she sang, "God's Watchful Care". Carrying out the Thanksgiving theme the group sang "Count Your Many Blessings".

Program closed with a "punch board" stunt, conducted by Mrs. Cora Coffland. During the social hours a dessert course was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Roy Groce, and the Misses Daisy and Viola Woollever.

Returns Home

Roy E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Wilson, who recently was discharged from the Navy has arrived in Circleville and is in the home of his parents on West Corwin street. The annual 50-50 dance Saturday evening in Memorial hall will be held in honor of Mr. Wilson.

Mrs. Margaret Brackney, Shelby, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Merz and daughter, Margie, East Mound street, and other relatives in Circleville.

Wesley-Wed Class Has Meet

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Blake were hosts to members of the Wesley-Wed class of the First Methodist church for its monthly meeting Wednesday evening in the social rooms of the church.

Mrs. Blake opened the devotional period with the members singing "For The Beauty Of The Earth". Mrs. George Schaub, president, conducted the business session.

The program, presented by Mrs. Wharton, included a vocal solo, "Smiling Through" by Miss Loraine Pritchard, accompanied by Miss Ruth Troutman. Miss Anna Marie Workman and Miss Beverly Reid sang "Julia's Garden", accompanied by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh. A piano solo "Song of Spring" was presented by Gordon Blake. "No Candle Was There" and "Prayer Perfect" were selected by Miss Lois Defenbaugh for her vocal solos. She was accompanied by Mrs. Defenbaugh.

A comedy quartette composed of George Schaub, George Wharton, William Cook and Vernon Blake with Richard Plum at the piano presented several selections.

Games and contests were won by Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Defenbaugh and Mrs. Frank Wantz. Dinner partners were chosen by matching pieces of puzzles. The guests enjoyed group singing about the tables following the serving of refreshments.

Others present besides those taking part in the program were the Rev. Elisha Kneisley, Mrs. Kneisley, Dr. W. L. Sprouse, Mrs. Sprouse, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Pharo Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warden, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graef,

Class Meeting

Eighteen members of the Intermediate class of the First Evangelical United Brethren church responded to roll call at the meeting held in the home of Lou Ann Mast, North Court street.

Marilyn Syers was in charge of the devotionals. Lou Ann Mast read from the Scriptures and the group sang several selections. Marilyn Cane and Shirley Hixson directed the recreational period. Ronald Eldridge won a prize in the contests. Plans were made for the class to sponsor a baked goods sale Saturday.

Mrs. Steinhouser was honored by a stork shower by the group. Mrs. Roy Dumm received a gift from her secret booster pal in observance of her birthday and wedding anniversaries. A gift was also given to Mrs. Stonerock to mark her wedding anniversary by her secret booster pal.

Mrs. John Straley and Mrs. Wigner won prizes in the games contests. A covered-dish supper was served preceding the meeting. Guests invited to join the members for the evening were Mrs. Lewis Cook, Mrs. W. O. Bower and Mrs. Anna Heeter.

Thimble Club

Mrs. John Gehres, route 1, was invited to join 12 members of an afternoon thimble club when Mrs. Lee T. Shaner, East Union street, was hostess to the club in the party home of Mrs. Stanley Glick. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon.

Local Residents Dinner Guests In Lancaster

S. S. Courtney, Canton, entertained with a dinner party in the Pine room at Hotel Lancaster honoring his sister, Miss Ella Courtney, Hillside hotel. The occasion marked the birthday anniversaries of both Miss Courtney and the host.

Covers were laid for 14 guests at the long table centered with an arrangement of orchid and white pompons. A birthday cake, topped with pink candles, was placed on a music box standard which played "Happy Birthday".

Present for the affair were: Miss Courtney, Mr. and Mrs. George Eitel and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eitel, Circleville; C. H. Courtney, Zanesville; Mrs. E. D. Roush, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spybe, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller, Miss Ruth Miller and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Courtney, Canton.

Nine Papyrus Members At Meeting

Members of the Papyrus club conducted their bi-monthly meeting at the parsonage of St. Philip's Episcopal church with the Rev. L. C. Sherburne and Mrs. Sherburne being hosts for the occasion.

Members of the club who were present were Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Mrs. Margaret Gillen, Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. W. Emerson Downing, Miss Nell Weldon, Mrs. B. M. Kellstadt, Mrs. A. C. Turner and Mrs. Charles T. Gilmore.

During the evening, Mrs. Jones read parts of an original short story. Mrs. Robinson presented selections from her "Psalms of Sequence"; "Pioneer", "The Patriot, 1864", "The Idealist" and "World Citizen 1948". Mrs. Gilmore concluded the program by reading her original article, "Why I Am Proud To Be An American".

LOST 30 POUNDS WITH THIS HOME RECIPE

Renel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your drugstore and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Renel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoons a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if you lose pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles; just return the empty bottle for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Renel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry.

Here is what Mrs. C. Horwede, 9018 Lorain Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, says about Renel: "I have been taking your wonderful product for some time and plan to continue to take it as I have never felt better in my life and I am reducing the easy way. I have lost 30 pounds and am losing an average of 2 to 3 pounds a week. I don't switch to another product, get genuine Renel."

THANKSGIVING IS THEME

Mrs. Ralph Long selected as her topic for the devotional period "Thanksgiving Blessings of 1947", at the regular session of the Shining Light Bible class of the First Evangelical United Brethren church when its members met Thursday evening in the Community house. A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Ernest May.

Plans were completed for the Sunday offering of the building fund. The group decided to exchange Christmas gifts ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents at their annual holiday party on December 18. Hostesses for the Christmas party will be Mrs. Edward McClarren, Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Florence Noggle.

The evening's program followed the direction of Mrs. Iley Greeno. Mrs. C. O. Kerns gave two short readings. Miss Nell Denman played her own accompaniment as she sang, "God's Watchful Care". Carrying out the Thanksgiving theme the group sang "Count Your Many Blessings".

Program closed with a "punch board" stunt, conducted by Mrs. Cora Coffland. During the social hours a dessert course was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Roy Groce, and the Misses Daisy and Viola Woolever.

Returns Home

Roy E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Wilson, who frequently was discharged from the Navy has arrived in Circleville and is in the home of his parents on West Corwin street. The annual 50-50 dance Saturday evening in Memorial hall will be held in honor of Mr. Wilson.

Mrs. Margaret Brackney, Shelby, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Merz and daughter, Margie, East Mount street, and other relatives in Circleville.

Wesley-Wed Class Has Meet

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Blake were hosts to members of the Wesley-Wed class of the First Methodist church for its monthly meeting Wednesday evening in the social rooms of the church.

Mrs. Blake opened the devotional period with the members singing "For The Beauty Of The Earth". Mrs. George Schaub, president, conducted the business session.

The program, presented by Mrs. Wharton, included a vocal solo, "Smiling Through" by Miss Loraine Pritchard, accompanied by Miss Ruth Troutman. Miss Anna Marie Workman and Miss Beverly Reid sang "Julia's Garden", accompanied by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh. A piano solo "Song of Spring" was presented by Gordon Blake. "No Candle Was There" and "Prayer Perfect" were selected by Miss Lois Defenbaugh for her vocal solos. She was accompanied by Mrs. Defenbaugh.

A comedy quartette composed of George Schaub, George Wharton, William Cook and Vernon Blake with Richard Plum at the piano presented several selections.

Games and contests were won by Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Defenbaugh and Mrs. Frank Wantz. Dinner partners were chosen by matching pieces of puzzles. The guests enjoyed group singing about the tables following the serving of refreshments.

Others present besides those taking part in the program were the Rev. Elisha Kneisley, Mrs. Kneisley, Dr. W. L. Sprouse, Mrs. Sprouse, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Pharo Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warden, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graef,

Class Meeting

$25 Million Surplus Is Predicted

Herbert Answers Chamber Charge

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21—Governor Thomas Herbert went to bat today for his administration's financial record and declared that the state will end the year with a 25-million-dollar surplus.

The governor laid his administration's financial record on the line last night here at the 54th annual banquet of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, an organization that had criticized many of his financial policies last Spring.

After citing figures showing that Ohio's revenues were exceeding predictions and that expenditures were within current income, Herbert dipped into the future and predicted a continued financially rosy picture, not only for the rest of his present term but for the 1949-50 biennium as well. He declared:

"It is my considered judgment that state revenues will exceed estimates and existing appropriations for the current biennium by a good margin."

THE MOST likely obstacles to financial health of the state in the governor's opinion are the veterans' bonus and gasoline tax anti-diversion amendments or "inordinate" added demands for state spending.

The governor noted the demands of Ohio cities for a greater share of tax revenues by pointing out that the revenue from the intangibles tax is now expected to be more than 15 and a quarter million dollars next year when the proceeds will be turned over to local governments. The revenue had been estimated at 13 millions.

Improvements and expansion of the state's facilities, especially in the fields of welfare, health, education and highways, also were outlined by Herbert.

Governor Herbert took cognizance of the Chamber's earlier critical attitude when he declared at the beginning of his address:

"On many issues I have been in agreement with your organization. On the subject of finances, however, I was rather sharply criticized and dire predictions were made as to the future if my recommendations to the legislature were adopted."

Chamber President C. I. Weaver, meanwhile, announced the creation of four new general vice presidencies. Named by the board of directors to the posts were Edwin H. Davis, of Columbus; W. T. Holliday, of Cleveland; H. D. McClelland, of Cambridge; and J. S. Sprott, of Cincinnati. All other officers were re-elected.

The Chapel Choir, concert group from Columbus, has been booked for a concert in Circleville high school auditorium Friday, December 5. The choir, which comes from Capital university, will appear under the sponsorship of the Trinity Lutheran junior choir.

Seventy-two select voices, singing entirely a capella, comprise the concert group, under direction of Ellis Emanuel Snyder, who is well known in Circleville.

The Chapel Choir is composed of students of the university's conservatory of music, located in Bexley, suburb of Columbus. Tickets for the concert, may be secured from any member of the junior choir of Trinity Lutheran church, or at the Griffith and Martin store, Sieverts confectionery, J. W. Walters grocery, Bennett's north end grocery, Anderson grocery, or by phoning 322.

Tickets can be reserved Saturday at no additional charge at Griffith and Martin store.

Big Nine Runnerup Spot Eyed

Wisconsin Underdog Against Minnesota

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—Three Big Nine football teams will be shooting for clean possession of second place in the final league standings tomorrow, while a fourth — champion Michigan — seeks to end its regular season unbeaten, untied, and unmatched throughout the land.

Coming out against woebegone Ohio State at Ann Arbor, Mich., the mighty Michigan Wolverines are so heavily favored that most bookmakers refuse to handle any bets on the game, either way.

But your money can find plenty of action on the other three Big Nine contests. Wisconsin, current second-place on the Big Nine ladder, is five and a half point underdog to Minnesota in their game at Minneapolis, while the two other "possibles" for second place—Illinois and Purdue—both are favored.

THE EX-CHAMPION Illini are liked by 16½ points in their match against Northwestern at Champaign, Ill., while Purdue stands six-point favorite over Indiana in their annual scrap for the Old Oaken Bucket at Bloomington, Ind.

So, with Wisconsin an underdog and Illinois and Purdue both favored, the before-game standings look like this:

Wisconsin	3	1	1
Purdue	3	2	0
Illinois	3	2	0

It becomes apparent, then, that all Wisconsin needs is an upset win over Minnesota to clinch second place, no matter what Purdue and Illinois do.

For either Purdue or Illinois to take undisputed possession of the runner-up slot, however, one must win, the other must lose or tie, and Wisconsin must lose. Whichever one gets the victory in that pattern—Purdue or Illinois—will have sole charge of second place.

Iowa Retains Anderson

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 21—Peace reigned on the University of Iowa campus today after the athletic board of control voted unanimously to retain Dr. Eddie Anderson as head football coach.

Anderson turned in his resignation at midnight last Friday because he said there was "loose talk" and criticism around Iowa about his coaching methods.

The Hawkeyes wound up their Western conference gridiron schedule last Saturday with a surprising 13 to 7 upset victory over Minnesota for a season's record of three victories, five defeats and a tie.

In its decision to retain Anderson, the board said it acted on the recommendation of Dr. Paul Brechler, university director of the division of physical education and athletics.

Boosters Hold Annual Fete For Fathers

Thursday night was "Dad's Night" with fathers of the football players being guests as 125 persons attended the monthly meeting of the Circleville Boosters club in Memorial hall.

The program opened with the showing of motion pictures of the Circleville-Washington C. H. football game.

The "Spiritual Kings," local quartet specializing in spiritual and religious songs, sang several numbers.

Young Dick McIntyre won plaudits with his impersonation of Donald Duck. Tom Eveland's rendition of "Dark Town Poker Club" also drew hearty applause.

Adding to the evening's entertainment the entire group joined in singing "Swing Low Sweet Chariot."

Members of Circleville's football team sang several selections for the group.

Closing the program, President W. F. Heine gave a few remarks concerning the annual Boosters Club football banquet which is tentatively set for Dec. 4.

Program Chairman James Callahan was responsible for the program.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the evening.

Bird Season Ends Saturday

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21—The 1947 pheasant season closes at 4 p. m. tomorrow, but hopeful Ohio hunters will have a chance to test their shooting eyes on other winged game for still another week.

The season on ruffed grouse will continue until 4 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 29.

The state conservation division reported today that its grouse propagation program has brought a steady increase in the population of the birds for the last six or seven years.

Grouse are particularly prevalent in the eastern and southeastern Ohio counties.

Yanks Demanding Probe Of Fast Brownie Sales

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 — Demands by rival clubs for a complete investigation of the St. Louis Browns' sale of star ball players in job lots is the first move toward clarifying what has come to be known as "the St. Louis situation."

In three trades this week the Browns have been dismantled and have virtually nothing left, except a franchise and absolute conviction that they will finish in the American league cellar again next season.

Dan Topping, president of the New York Yankees, announced today that he had called upon Commissioner Harry Chandler and League President Will H. Hunter to "for an investigation" and suggested that "something radical must be done."

IT WAS reliably reported that the Browns' management went to the last American league meeting seeking a loan of $350,000 or $400,000 and was turned down.

The sales then were engineered at an estimated cash revenue to the Browns of $400,000, plus an assortment of benchwarmers from the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

In trades with the Red Sox the Browns lost Pitchers Jack Kramer and Ellis Kinder; Shortstop Vern Stephens and Utility Infielder Billy Hitchcock. Yesterday they sent Pitcher Bob Muncie and Outfielder Walt Judnich to Cleveland.

In putting the blast on the Browns, Topping of the Yankees went to some pains to point out that the Yankees are thinking in terms of baseball welfare generally.

He said: "We are not concerned with the acquisition of these players by the Boston Red Sox and the league teams during spring training, the regular season and the World Series.

What's more, Schwartz pays his own way into the ball parks.

2 Big Games To Wind Up Prep Football

Two star-studded attractions will close out the Ohio high school football season tomorrow. At Cleveland, the city's east and west senate champions, Cathedral Latin and Rhodes meet in the annual charity game in the Lakefront stadium.

At Canton's Fawcett stadium, Massillon and Canton McKinley meet for the 52nd time on the gridiron before 25,000 fans.

Both Latin and Rhodes have been beaten once, Latin by Holy Name and Rhodes by West Tech. In addition, Rhodes has been tied once.

McKinley will be favored to win its 25th victory in the Massillon series tomorrow. The Bulldogs, currently the state's second ranking team, were upset by Canton Lincoln for their only loss in nine starts.

Massillon has lost three games, but the defeats came at the hands of unbeaten Barberton, the state schoolboy leader, and once defeated Warren and Cathedral Latin.

Chicago Stags Pacing Cagers

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—The Chicago Stags paced the western division of the Basketball Association of America today on the basis of their 81 to 77 victory over the Washington Capitols at the Chicago stadium.

Max Zaslofsky, Stag forward, scored three field goals in the overtime period in last night's game for the Chicago victory after the score had been tied at 69-all.

"Handy" Andy Phillip, one of the Illinois "whiz kids," took scoring honors with nine baskets and two free throws for 20 points.

Moral Support Given OSU As Big Day Nears

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21—Ohio State fans today lent all the moral support they could muster to Coach Wesley Fesler who took his injury-ridden Buck squad to Ann Arbor this morning.

In a rally in downtown Columbus last night, Fesler told a huge throng that "we are going to meet the finest team Michigan ever had, and we actually think we're going to beat them."

This remark touched off a spontaneous ovation from the rallyers.

Michigan swamped the Bucks 58 to 6 last year, and Fesler's optimism heartened a crowd of more than 4,500.

Three special trains are scheduled to leave Columbus tomorrow morning for Ann Arbor. The team entrained this morning.

Moral Support Given OSU As Big Day Nears

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21—Ohio State fans today lent all the moral support they could muster to Coach Wesley Fesler who took his injury-ridden Buck squad to Ann Arbor this morning.

In a rally in downtown Columbus last night, Fesler told a huge throng that "we are going to meet the finest team Michigan ever had, and we actually think we're going to beat them."

This remark touched off a spontaneous ovation from the rallyers.

Michigan swamped the Bucks 58 to 6 last year, and Fesler's optimism heartened a crowd of more than 4,500.

Three special trains are scheduled to leave Columbus tomorrow morning for Ann Arbor. The team entrained this morning.

SQUEEZE plays are usually thought of as a means of making a contract or perhaps an extra trick. They can be useful also in limiting losses, if the declarer sees he can not possibly make his contract, due to some unfortunate development in the division of suits or location of opponents' honors. In a nutshell, a squeeze play is merely one mechanism whereby tricks are taken, just as is a finesse.

Slow Processes of Law Stalling County Lake Project

State Panel Stalemates Next Move

Action To Release $225,000 Fund

Pickaway county's $225,000 living monument to county residents who died in military service during World War II—Memorial lake and park—is being held up by the intricate and sometimes confusing machinery of state regulations and procedures.

H. A. "Buck" Ryder, state conservation commissioner, said in Columbus Thursday he believed the time when his department would exercise options on the land was not too far distant.

However, Ryder explained there is no immediate move his office can make. It is awaiting action of the state board of control, a panel of high Ohio officials, headed by Gov. Thomas Herbert.

The conservation chieftain explained that six steps must be taken before the state obtains title to the land and writes vouchers in payment for the land. They are:

- (1) State legislature appropriates funds.
- (2) Funds become available.
- (3) Land to be purchased is viewed by the board of control.
- (4) Board of control releases funds for payment of land.
- (5) Present landowners provide state with abstract and clear title to land.
- (6) State writes checks, assumes title to land.

RYDER STATED that the first three steps already have been taken. His office is now awaiting for step No. 4 to materialize.

The conservation executive reported that the board of control inspected the land about two weeks ago.

"It takes the board a month to three months after viewing the area to release funds under average circumstances," Ryder declared.

"And then comes a long, drawn-out process of getting the landowners to prepare abstracts and titles and get them to us," he continued. "After that the state attorney general's legal experts trace the titles, approve them and tell us to go ahead. We then prepare the vouchers and they are handled by the state auditor and treasurer. Finally, they come back to us and Mr. Landowner gets paid."

"But the longer it takes to get a clear title, the longer it takes for the state to take over the property," he declared. Then he added: "If some landowner cannot or refuses to provide us with an abstract or title, we take the matter to court where it is settled."

Ryder pointed out that all land owners in the area already have provided the state with "air-tight" options on the property.

NEITHER Ryder nor Walter G. Richards, president of the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Association, Thursday could shed any light on when

Retail Volume Shows Increase

Pickaway county merchants did far more retail business during the week ending Nov. 8 than during the corresponding week in 1946, a statement by Don H. Ebricht, state treasurer, revealed Friday.

Ebricht's statement was based on the sale of prepaid sales tax stamps. His office reported Pickaway merchants bought $4,831.94 worth of the stamps during the current period compared to $3,809.86 worth last year.

Total collections for the current year stand at $166,399 compared to $133,903 for the same period last year, the statement revealed.

Kerns Joins Orchestra

Clifford L. Kerns, who is a senior in the department of music at Otterbein college, Westerville, has been accepted to play trombone in the Ohio State civic orchestra by Izler Solomon, conductor of the Columbus Philharmonic orchestra.

Mr. Kerns is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Kerns, West Union street. He received his first musical training under C. F. Zaenglein, instrumental instructor in Circleville high school, and was a member of the 1942 graduating class.

The Columbus orchestra is scheduled for a concert at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in Memorial hall, Columbus.

contracts for the construction of the project would be let.

Ryder declared that $225,000 was on hand for the project. He stated that the state legislature had appropriated $150,000 at the last session for the project. To that fund, Ryder's department has approved $75,000 from the state fish and wildlife fund.

Ryder declared that only $34,500 would be required for purchase of the 400 acres which will be transformed into the new memorial. About 161 acres will be in lake while the remaining 239 will be rebuilt into a park area with facilities for picnic and outdoor sports.

Plans call for the building of new roads, buildings, picnic furnaces and other improvements.

Soviets Call Iran 'Hostile'

LONDON, Nov. 21—The Moscow radio said today that Russia has formally accused Iran of "hostile action" and "rude discrimination" against the U. S. S. R. in cancelling the Soviet-Iranian oil agreement.

The note, replying to the Iranian decision to call off the pact despite Russian pressure to extend it, labelled the action a "violation" of the agreement and added:

"The Soviet government declares a resolute protest against the hostile actions of the Iran government in regard to the Soviet Union which is incompatible with normal relations between the two states."

The note said that the Moscow government "charges the government of Iran with responsibility for the consequences of this."

Quoting Tass news agency, the Russian broadcaster said Soviet Ambassador Sadchikov sent a note to Premier Ahmad Ghamam in Tehran.

The note, replying to the Iranian decision to call off the pact despite Russian pressure to extend it, labelled the action a "violation" of the agreement and added:

"The Soviet government declares a resolute protest against the hostile actions of the Iran government in regard to the Soviet Union which is incompatible with normal relations between the two states."

Slow Processes of Law Stalling County Lake Project

State Panel Stalemates Next Move

Action To Release $225,000 Fund

Pickaway county's $225,000 living monument to county residents who died in military service during World War II—Memorial lake and park—is being held up by the intricate and sometimes confusing machinery of state regulations and procedures.

H. A. "Buck" Ryder, state conservation commissioner, said in Columbus Thursday he believed the time when his department would exercise options on the land was not too far distant.

However, Ryder explained there is no immediate move his office can make. It is awaiting action of the state board of control, a panel of high Ohio officials, headed by Gov. Thomas Herbert.

The conservation chieftain explained that six steps must be taken before the state obtains title to the land and writes vouchers in payment for the land. They are:

- (1) State legislature appropriates funds.
- (2) Funds become available.
- (3) Land to be purchased is viewed by the board of control.
- (4) Board of control releases funds for payment of land.
- (5) Present landowners provide state with abstract and clear title to land.
- (6) State writes checks, assumes title to land.

RYDER STATED that the first three steps already have been taken. His office is now awaiting for step No. 4 to materialize.

The conservation executive reported that the board of control inspected the land about two weeks ago.

"It takes the board a month to three months after viewing the area to release funds under average circumstances," Ryder declared.

"And then comes a long, drawn-out process of getting the landowners to prepare abstracts and titles and get them to us," he continued. "After that the state attorney general's legal experts trace the titles, approve them and tell us to go ahead. We then prepare the vouchers and they are handled by the state auditor and treasurer. Finally, they come back to us and Mr. Landowner gets paid."

"But the longer it takes to get a clear title, the longer it takes for the state to take over the property," he declared.

Then he added: "If some landowner cannot or refuses to provide us with an abstract or title, we take the matter to court where it is settled."

Ryder pointed out that all land owners in the area already have provided the state with "air-tight" options on the property.

Retail Volume Shows Increase

Pickaway county merchants did far more retail business during the week ending Nov. 8 than during the corresponding week in 1946, a statement by Don H. Ebright, state treasurer, revealed Friday.

Ebright's statement was based on the sale of prepaid sales tax stamps. His office reported Pickaway merchants bought $4,831.94 worth of the stamps during the current period compared to $3,809.86 worth last year.

Total collections for the current year stand at $166,399 compared to $133,903 for the same period last year, the statement revealed.

Kerns Joins Orchestra

Clifford L. Kerns, who is a senior in the department of music at Otterbein college, Westerville, has been accepted to play trombone in the Ohio State civic orchestra by Izler Solomon, conductor of the Columbus Philharmonic orchestra.

Mr. Kerns is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Kerns, West Union street. He received his first musical training under C. F. Zaenglein, instrumental instructor in Circleville high school, and was a member of the 1942 graduating class.

The Columbus orchestra is scheduled for a concert at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in Memorial hall, Columbus.

contracts for the construction of the project would be let.

Ryder declared that $225,000 was on hand for the project. He stated that the state legislature had appropriated $150,000 at the last session for the project. To that fund, Ryder's department has approved $75,000 from the state fish and wildlife fund.

Ryder declared that only $34,500 would be required for purchase of the 400 acres which will be transformed into the new memorial. About 161 acres will be in lake while the remaining 239 will be rebuilt into a park area with facilities for picnic and outdoor sports.

Plans call for the building of new roads, buildings, picnic furnaces and other improvements.

discrimination" against the U. S. S. R. in cancelling the Soviet-Iranian oil agreement.

Quoting Tass news agency, the Russian broadcaster said Soviet Ambassador Sadchikov sent a note to Premier Ahmad Ghavam in Tehran.

The note, replying to the Iranian decision to call off the pact despite Russian pressure to extend it, labelled the action a "violation" of the agreement and added:

"The Soviet government declares a resolute protest against the hostile actions of the Iran government in regard to the Soviet Union which is incompatible with normal relations between the two states."

The note said that the Moscow government "charges the government of Iran with responsibility for the consequences of this."
